The modulo division operator produces the remainder of an integer division. Syntax: If x and y are integers, then the expression: $x \% y$ produces the remainder when x is divided by y. Return Value: If y completely divides x, the result of the expression is 0.If x is not completely divisible by y, then the result will be the remainder in the range $[0, y-1]$ $x \bmod y = y$ and $x \bmod y = x$ if x
