Technological advancements aside, not much has changed on the human side of things. Relationships are still what they once were...diffcult. Mary and Joseph probably bickered about how the money should be spent, and Samson was probably just as jealous of other men around Dellah as most people are about their mates. Things change but people don't, and this personality test proves the point. Check in and see which biblical couple you and your significant other best resemble.Does your hubby love your food, like Adam and Eve? Or is your girlfriend destined to destroy your relationship for the love of money, as Delilah did with Samson? Details about your relationship with your parents, your pets, your God, and each other are not off limits. Paint a picture of what life is like with your main squeeze and this quiz will do the rest.Encourage your mate to participate so that you both can get really great conclusions. See if your love can withstand the Bible-honest truth! When it comes to having an open relationship, what is the consensus between you and your significant other? I can have whomever she chooses for me. We are happy with only a spiritual influence. Concubines are not off limits. When the two of you go out to eat, what are your dining habits? She orders the food, and I eat it, no questions asked. He'll only eat the food that he shouldn't eat. We always eat the same thing. What are his views about your children from another relationship? He prefers that the other "entity" be a top dog, a "big shot." I give birth only for him. He treats my children as his own. How would your friends describe his personality? He's faithful, but a loner type. He follows my lead most of the time. He's extremely loyal and nurturing. In general, how does he treat you? He let his father chastise me. When the two of you met, what were your reactions? He was shocked, and I was bored. He fell for me instantly, and I wasn't surprised. He was satisfied, I was eager to please him. He was confused at first, but got over it. I was relieved. How does she feel about money? She likes money more than she like me. She likes money, especially silver pieces. She'll agree to whatever I have to give. She is okay with my blue collar earnings. When the two of you travel, what kind of accommodations do you use? We both prefer the outdoors. She will only use the finest accommodations. She knows how to set up camp anywhere. As long as she is comfortable, any place that will have us will do. When he heard that you were pregnant, how did he react? He didn't realize how it all happened. He was unresponsive, too busy gazing into my beautiful eyes. He was overwhelmed with joy. He was shocked. The timing just didn't add up for him. When the two of you argue, what is his temper like? He's not too familiar with angry feelings, or feeling in general. He flies into a fit of rage, and knocks stuff over. She usually does what I say, so we rarely bicker. We only disagree about the children, and her father has the last word as far as they're concerned. How is his sense of humor? He has no concept of humor. He gets a lot of pleasure from making others feel uncomfortable about his rude jokes. He's seen too much to joke around. He's all about work and rarely tells a joke. What type of man does she like, and are you her type? She like me because I'm the only one she sees regularly. She likes strong men, and I'm her type. She likes religious men, which I definitely am. I am the leader that she's always wanted. Does the couple own any pets? Yes, way too many to count. No, he prefers to use them as food. Yes, they are farm animals. Did he have a previous relationship? Neither of us have previous mates. Yes, his past things were of different religions. Yes, we don't talk much about his past. Sometimes we have to move on short notice. We travel for his line of work. We stay in hotels whenever there's availability. Do the two of you spend a lot of time together? We are inseparable, like a rib in a rib cage. He can't get enough of me. He usually does his own thing, and I hang out with my friends most of the time. He watches my every move. How do the two of you feel about nudity? We were fine with it at first, but our new diet has us rethinking things. We are nude in front of each other whenever possible. We rarely see each other in clothes. He hasn't seen me naked yet. Are the two of you good at solving each other's problems? No, she made one critical error that we can't fix. She uses me to fix her money problems. I handle all of her problems. Her father takes care of our problems. What kinds of personalities do your children have? Our sons are always at each other's throats. We prefer not to have children. Our sons exhibit leadership qualities like their father. One of our sons has a messiah complex. What is her best quality? She's the most beautiful woman I've ever seen. Has there been any cheating in the relationship? That's not possible where we live. No, I arranged his affair. Yes, but it was for a good reason. Do you two go out a lot together? Yes. We are the first in our family to try anything. No, we stay indoors up under one another. We're like nomads, so we're always "out." No, I hate it when guys look at her. What type of reputation does he have? His reputation is nonexistent. He's known to knock a few heads together. People ask him for his advice. He's known as a good guy. How would you rate her beauty? The older she gets, the prettier she gets. There's no other woman for her to envy. She only became jealous after she found out about my son by another woman. Sometimes she envies my relationship with our pets. Our slithering neighbor, whom I can't stand. She confides in her father. No, he reacts without thinking about consequences. Yes, he's too patient, in my opinion. No, he tries to fix things but ends up making problems worse. Yes, he exhibits perfect patience. Has he popped "the question" yet? No, I woke up one day and we were married. He never has, and he never will. No, we both knew it had to be done so we just did it. Yes, but I never thought he'd want to marry me considering my past. Yes, she has no choice in the matter. She'll snitch on me in a second, if the price is right. Yes and I love her dearly for it. Yes, but she's loyal first to her father. As far as I'm concerned, there are few things as adorable as adorable as sweet old couples. Think about it: how many times have you cracked a smile at a pair of cute old-timers holding hands in the street? If you're anything like me, seeing love thrive for so long and endure the test of time is not only heart-warming, it's inspirational. It makes me want to work that much harder on my own relationship so that one day my other half and I can one day too rock matching canes! Sweet old couples remind us that if you try hard enough, anything is possible—even epic love stories spanning generations. With that said, here are 27 lessons about love that we can learn from possibly the greatest relationship gurus out there! 1. Don't forget the small touches While grand, sweeping gestures are lovely every once in a while, it's the little, frequent ones that will make your partner feel loved on a daily basis. A kiss hello or goodbye, a cup of tea while your other half is working to show them you care, a quick shoulder rub in front of the television, a single rose if you're feeling particularly romantic, or simply offering to take the rubbish out for once. You may find these things insignificant, but the small things really do nurture relationships in time. 2. "Love is not a matter of counting the years, But making the years count." (Michelle Amand) 3. Couples who laugh together stay together! Sharing a giggle with the one you love has to be one of the most invigorating and bond-strengthening things ever, am I right? If you can't quite get the laughs going on your own, why not pop a funny film on the television or watch a silly video on YouTube together? You'll not only feel happier, but also closer to your partner. 4. Get physical No, I don't mean that (although that's fantastic, too!)—but physical contact with your lover is crucial to keeping that feeling of intimacy going over the years. It doesn't have to be massively awkward public displays of affection (no-one wants to be that couple, surely?) but a kiss on the forehead, a comforting stroke on the back of the neck, a massage or even holding hands will help you feel more connected to your partner. Give it a try! 5. Listen to each other - Scroll down to continue reading article - - Scroll down to continue reading article - This may seem like Relationship 101, but it's incredibly easy to fall off the bandwagon, even with the basics! Being available to listen to your partner when she or he is having a bad day, being there to share their personal victories or hearing them out in an argument instead of ignoring them and getting your say no matter what are simple steps you can take to help your couple thrive over time. Having said that... 6. "You come to love not by finding the perfect person, but by learning to see an imperfect person perfectly." (Sam Keen) 7. Communicate, communicate, communicate! No matter how close you are with your other half, most of the time, they won't be able to magically sense when you're upset unless you get your feelings out in the open. Don't be afraid to let it all out and communicate with your partner: keeping your thoughts bottled up is a surefire way to build up resentment over the years, while sharing them will lead to a closer relationship. 8. Celebrate the good times together... While this doesn't have to involve jumping on beds together (although, why the heck not?!), there's something to be said for sharing happy moments with your sweetheart! Bonding over something that brings you joy is exhilarating and will make you feel closer than ever. With that said... 9. ...And support each other through the bad When things go south, be there for each other. Just like sharing the good times will make you feel closer to one another, supporting each other through rough patches will make you feel like a team. 10. "Love is to love someone for who they are, who they were, and who they will be." (Chris Moore) - Scroll down to continue reading article - - Scroll down to continue reading article - If you're feeling a bit blah about your relationship (don't beat yourself up, it happens!), cast your mind back to where it all began for you two! Think of happy moments and experiences you've shared, and remember why you fell in love in the first place. In fact, why not take this trip down memory lane with your other half? If you have photos (and a glass of wine), even better! 12. Love isn't always easy (but it's oh-so worth it) These sweet old couples have been through thick and thin together; they've weathered their share of arguments. It can't always have been easy, but then, neither life nor love are! Sticking together even through the rough patches is a test of character and of the strength of your love: if you can make it through the storm, there's nothing that'll get in your way! 13. Celebrate your love You might not be into Valentine's Day—no matter! Find little, cute ways to celebrate your relationship. It can be a card on that most romantic of days, it can be breakfast in bed in memory of the day you first met, or a glass of champagne together in the spot you shared your first kiss. It all comes down to showing each other how much you value your love! 14. "Love is what you've been through with somebody." (James Thurber) 15. Date If there's one thing I've learned over the years and that these cute oldies will agree with, is the importance of dating. Even if you've been together for years and years, keeping a date night ritual once a week or twice a month is a lovely way to keep the romance going in your relationship! Try picking a different restaurant every month or so, go for long walks together or simply spending some quality time together, far from the madding crowd. 16. Remember that love is a long-lasting friendship - Scroll down to continue reading article - - Scroll down to continue reading article - Sure, your other half is your love interest, but they're also (or should be!) one of your closest friends. Be silly together! Be open with each other and support each other like friends would. Have fun together. Being friends as well as lovers will add another layer to your relationship. Nurture that—it's invaluable. 17. Try something new together Instead of settling down in front of the television for the nth night in the row, why not try something new and different together? It's a brilliant way of bringing some spice to your relationship! 18. "Love is not who you can see yourself with. It is who you can't see yourself without." (Anonymous) 19. Sorry goes a long way Sometimes, it feels like the hardest thing to say, but man, can that simple work word wonders! Try just saying "I'm sorry" next time you're in a fight, even if you're not necessarily in the wrong. What's more important—being right or moving on from the problem? Whether it's a picnic every Sunday afternoon, pancakes at the diner every Saturday or a trip to the theatre every third Wednesday of the month, start a fun tradition together! Don't underestimate the value of having something to look forward to on a regular basis with your loved one: not only will it give you an excuse to spend time together (as if you needed it!), it'll also become "your thing" and you'll be one of those couples. (You know you want to.) 21. Love yourself, too While showering your other half with love and affection is super important, don't forget to show yourself some TLC, too! By loving yourself, you become able to love others more. It's magic! 22. "For love is immortality." (Emily Dickinson) - Scroll down to continue reading article - - Scroll down to continue reading article - 23. Surprise each other! While having date nights and traditions is great (obviously, given that I just told you so!), there's much to be said for spontaneity and surprising your partner every once in a while to bring a little spark back into the relationship! Unless your other half absolutely hates surprises, don't hold back. Do something out of the ordinary every once in a while: swing by your sweetheart's office at lunch for an impromptu bite together, have a bunch of roses delivered on a whim (a girl can only dream)... These surprises don't necessarily have to be huge; even the smallest change to a routine can be delightful! 24. Fight right There will be times when it'll be tempting to lash out at your partner, using unkind words to hurt. Although satisfying in the heat of the moment, fighting unfairly—with harsh words and accusations—doesn't help the situation. When you hit a snag in your relationship, try to keep your calm; listen to what your other half has to say and tell them how you feel, too. Communicate. Compromise. Try as best you can to not tear each other apart, because the more you do, the harder it'll be to come back from. 25. Go on adventures together! Much like trying something new together or starting a tradition will help cement your relationship and give it staying power, leaving your respective comfort zones and going on adventures together will keep that passion going! (While you're at it, totally do what this couple's doing and share a bike. Or a tandem! Or any other equally cute means of transportation!) 26. Choose kindness Choose to forgive rather than begrudge. Choose to lend a helping hand rather than be cold out of anger. Be a shoulder to cry on, rather than the accusatory finger. Choose to embrace, rather than shun. Relationships take work, and forgiveness, and compromise. Choose kindness. 27. Remember: it gets better with age!
